INTRODUCTION

This report is designed to give you new insights into your character and personality from a perspective considerably different from that which most people use. The descriptions in this report are based on the ancient science of numerology.

The report discusses:

The lessons you are learning in this life, your deep inner desires and how to fulfill them, your talents and personality traits and how to make the best use of them, the environment in which you work best, your attitude toward work, and your ways of relating to other people.

The report can also guide you in identifying existing opportunities and opening the way to new and even more favorable possibilities. It's up to you, though, to use the information here, along with your free will, to determine the road on which you want to journey and the distance you wish to travel. No matter your age, the roads are open when you are ready to explore.

The numerology chart from which this report is derived is based on your birth date, birth name and current name. The birth date and birth name describe the characteristics and abilities with which you were born. The current name describes the changes in those characteristics and abilities which occurred after you started to use your new name. If you've used your current name for less than five years, the changes it describes may still be in the process of unfolding.

Some talents and characteristics surface at different times in your life. Occasionally, a characteristic described in this report has been present in an earlier part of your life and is not of current importance. Sometimes, a talent mentioned here is present although you may not be fully aware of it. If this is the case, check with a friend who knows you well and you may be pleasantly surprised. A few characteristics may not have appeared in your life as yet although they're described in this report. The description of these undeveloped potentials may serve to open your consciousness to new and exciting possibilities.

For many people, some of their strong potentials are not developed because of obstacles which have not been overcome. A part of this report may describe you as you would like to be rather than as you feel you are. When this is the case, the sections of the report describing the obstacles holding back that particular potential are especially important for you to understand.

Quite often the report describes several different and diverse sides of yourself. You may try to suppress or even ignore parts of who you are that don't come easily to you and emphasize other, more comfortable sides of yourself. You'll find, though, that when you can learn to integrate and equally express all the different sides of who you are, you will make the most progress in your life.

OVERVIEW

There are several different sides to your character, but you're primarily a person who enjoys free-wheeling explorations of anything and everything which crosses your path—unless you're one of the few people with this kind of energy who have to first learn how to break loose to freedom before they can delight in the free-wheeling explorations. You're probably very imaginative, creative and versatile, bursting with enthusiasm and optimism. Because you're so free, your early years are likely to be spent in a whirl of activities, enjoying friendships and social engagements and exploring creative and artistic worlds as well. During those early years, you may be working—or trying to figure out how to work—on taming the restless, impatient and impulsive side of your character. Much of your youth and young adulthood will probably be spent trying to learn to concentrate on a few projects rather than spending your time on a great number of ventures in which little is accomplished.

If there are any strong differences between your free-wheeling energy and the other aspects of your energy described below, the free-wheeling characteristics tend to be expressed. Some people find it easier to ignore the other aspects entirely, particularly during their younger years.

YOUR VERY EXPRESSIVE FREE-WHEELING CREATIVITY—AND HOW IT WORKS FOR AND AGAINST YOU

Your 5 Life Path And 3 Expression

You were born with considerable versatility—the ability to do almost anything you attempt with superior skill. As you can imagine, this innate capacity allows you a boundless freedom most people can only dream about. One of your major lessons in life is to learn to use this freedom constructively. Since you have so many talents and so many opportunities for the use of those talents, you probably have to learn to focus your energies on a limited number of ventures rather than attempt to take advantage of all the possibilities.

You have an innate delight in the pleasures of life. You sometimes affirm this delight with exhilarating enthusiasm, sometimes savor it with intense but quiet pleasure. Others will recognize your ability to appreciate and express this wonderful joy in living and seek out your company. Some of your time will be spent socializing, either with many friends in varied activities or in the company of a few intimates engaged in quiet diversions. You'll probably enjoy using your considerable creative ability. You may choose a line of work in which both your social and creative skills can be developed.

You're probably the kind of person who gives much to your friends. They appreciate your openness, humor, warmth and affection as well as your charm and graciousness. People are likely to enjoy the fun they can have with you, the laughter and spontaneity that are usually found in your presence. During your younger years, you may be relatively quiet, sharing your warmth and fun with only a few close friends or in special situations. As you get older, you will probably choose to widen the circle of those who enjoy your special good cheer.

Some people with this kind of energy, though, often seem little interested in experiencing or sharing this delightful potential. If you're moody and inexpressive in your younger years, you may, even when older, choose to share only a small part of yourself with others. You may have to expend considerable effort to become more open and expressive.

You have a lively imagination along with your considerable creative ability. You may spend a great deal of your time enjoying your creative pursuits. You probably express yourself well verbally and it wouldn't be surprising if you involve yourself, at least part of the time, in activities related to your voice or to words. You may have some singing or acting talent, or you may enjoy writing or lecturing. Since you instinctively know the best way to present material and information, you could be a natural at teaching or selling. You're probably a fine conversationalist.

You're likely to have the ability to maintain a lighter view in a relatively difficult situation so that you don't get overwhelmed with the difficulties. At times, though, when the going gets rough, you may become critical, overly sensitive or moody.

You're very much attracted by variety, unusual people, unusual interests, travel and adventure. You're probably drawn to new and progressive activities and, in using your talents, you're particularly interested in the latest developments and the more original approaches. You usually bring a special excitement to your activities that often gets others interested in your work. When you combine your enthusiasm with your imagination, resourcefulness and adaptability, you have an unbeatable combination.

You're apt to feel restless much of the time. Since the world is so exciting, you probably want to get involved with everything that comes your way. You often dissipate your energies on your many ventures with little to show for your efforts. All too often, you move rapidly from one activity to another, more than likely confusing others who have difficulty following your fast changing pace. You often leave an experience before you've completed it out of an urge to try something new. You probably have to learn to limit the number of your activities so that at least some of your projects will be completed. You're probably aware of the conflict between this restless side of your nature and the other aspects of your personality. Although you usually try to balance your desire for freedom with your other needs, every now and then you probably don't want to be bothered with any common or routine affairs at all.

Some people with your kind of versatility don't make the most of it because they're afraid to take risks or because of the conflict between their need for free-wheeling freedom and their other needs. If you find yourself shying away from opportunities, you're probably holding yourself back.

Your 14/5 Karmic Debt

You're probably going to have to expend considerable effort to appreciably reduce the level of change and variety in your life. Until you learn to slow the pace at which you often live, you're likely to feel little sense of accomplishment—and a heightened level of frustration.

In addition to slowing the pace, you probably have to learn how to experience change comfortably—the nurturing at the beginning of an interest or relationship, the delight when it's in full bloom, the satisfaction at the conclusion. Rather than being disappointed at the limited duration of many of the experiences in your life, you may begin to appreciate the transient beauty related to these experiences.

Your 5 Intensity Point

Although there is probably a great deal of change in your life, your approach is likely to further increase the pace. You may, at times, shift course on a moment's notice. The people who are attracted by your vitality and enthusiasm may be turned off or overwhelmed, on occasion, by your changes of direction and your inconsistent manner. At times, you may call further attention to your activities with your unusual or unconventional approach. It will probably take a good deal of work to slow to a level where you can use your opportunities constructively.

YOUR ORDERLY, HARDWORKING NATURE— AND YOUR NARROW, LIMITING APPROACH

Your 4 Soul Urge And 4 Birthday

That versatile and creative side is a primary part of your makeup. There are other aspects of your personality which contribute to the overall picture even though they're of lesser influence than your versatile side. If there are any conflicts between your free-spirited traits and the other characteristics, your free-spirited side usually wins out.

You have the potential to be a systematic, orderly person and often emphasize those qualities in your life. Since you are capable of working long, hard and patiently, you would probably enjoy being in a job where you can organize and develop routines and methodical procedures. Your personal life probably reflects a similar concern with system and order.

Others often appreciate your special ability to produce order where little or none has existed. You usually are good at organizing and managing ventures of any size. Your patient and persevering manner add to your managerial ability. You are probably dependable, conscientious and self-disciplined much of the time. You have the special ability to convert an abstract idea into a practical, down-to-earth working format. Although you can handle abstractions, you often prefer to work with material matters. Your honesty and sincerity probably make it easy for people to place their trust in you. One of your lessons is to learn the rewards of giving service to others. As you reach your thirties, you may find that you produce some of your work with that end in mind.

You can be systematic and orderly, but you may have to learn to use this important characteristic in a balanced way. You probably have to be careful not to lose sight of the bigger picture because of your extreme desire to keep things orderly or because of your excessive concern with details. There may be times when you feel like you're in a rut, giving considerable effort without a sense of accomplishment.

When you feel limited or restricted, whatever the cause, it's likely to be a source of considerable frustration or resentment. When this happens, see if you are causing the limitations that you experience rather than assuming that they are caused by someone or something else. In many instances, you're likely to discover that the restrictions you feel are of your own making and can be lightened or removed. The strong likes and dislikes you express from time to time may sometimes produce the very limitations which upset you. Your strong expression of right and wrong—and the feelings you often have that your way is the right way or the only way—may also produce a sense of restriction.

Some people with this kind of energy are often considerably disorganized instead of being systematic and orderly. If you find yourself having difficulties with organizational matters, you have some work to do to begin making use of this fine potential.

Much of the time, you probably prefer a stable, well-regulated life. You often present a somewhat fixed approach and can cause yourself problems when you are dogmatic or narrow-minded. Although you are able to fight with the courage of your strong convictions, you may often appear rigid or stubborn. You're likely to restrict your forward progress at times because of your fear of taking chances.

Your 13/4 Karmic Debt

There are times when you may feel boxed in and unable to adjust your course to a more productive direction. If you rationalize your uncomfortable position—and you're likely to be skilled at fooling yourself in this way—your predicament isn't likely to change. Instead of accepting much needed help, you're apt to feel that friends who offer constructive comments don't understand the situation. The solution to your feeling of limitation often involves revising your viewpoint and adopting a lighter, more flexible approach. It will probably take a lot of effort to change your way of seeing things, but that is likely to be the best—possibly the only—way to ease your difficulties. If you choose not to change, or if you are lazy and indifferent, the pressures may intensify.

Despite your sense of limitation, you usually complete the work at hand, but you may not receive much satisfaction from your accomplishments. You probably keep searching for avenues which feel like they won't restrict you. Until your viewpoint changes, it may not be easy to find interesting paths without limitations.

Your 4 Modified Karmic Lesson

You're likely to find yourself in many situations requiring a great deal of work. You may be willing to work long, hard and patiently, continuing despite long hours or the heaviness of the job load. If, on the other hand, you see hard work as something to be avoided, you're likely to look for easy ways out.

The work is likely to be present, whether you choose to take care of it or not. If you're willing to work, you can learn the satisfaction of a difficult job well done. If you don't take care of the job at hand, you may regret your inaction later when you have to face even more work because of the work previously left undone.

Your 8 Karmic Lesson

Despite your good business potential, you probably have to learn how to deal with money comfortably in your personal life. You may worry that you never have enough money, or you may have an unrealistic view of how far your earnings will go. You may buy things you really can't afford, or you may be afraid to buy things although the cost is well within your income. Until you can deal with your personal finances with ease, you may be subject to uncomfortable pressures related to financial dependence or excessive striving for attainment.

Your 8 Maturity Number

Sometime in the middle of your life, most likely between the ages of thirty-five and fifty, you'll probably re-evaluate the satisfactions you've obtained with the material freedom and power which you've achieved. At that time, you'll probably focus on your current work and the potential you see for further development. You're likely to evaluate your career in terms of future financial and status possibilities. Because of this mid-life appraisal, it wouldn't be surprising if you make some important alterations in your attitudes and actions in regard to your career in order to achieve greater satisfaction.

The 13/4 Karmic Debt Deleted In Your Current Name

With your current name, you probably feel as if many of the restrictions which held you back have now been eliminated. It should be far easier for you to act as you would like, without feeling weighted down by pressure applied by others or limitations of your own making. You're likely to feel more open-minded now and more willing to follow constructive advice. It's much easier to make progress since you probably feel that you have many more options available than you could see before. With your current name, you're likely to have a more flexible approach which allows you to take better advantage of your opportunities.

YOUR CONSIDERATE SIDE

The Added 2, 6, 9 Energy In Your Current Name

There's another aspect of your personality worth mentioning although it's probably of much lesser influence than the traits previously mentioned.

With your current name, the caring side of your character assumes more importance. With that name, there's likely to be an increase in your interest in others, particularly members of your family and close friends. People will probably recognize your friendliness and affection and respond accordingly. When you're generous with your time, money and material resources, as you're likely to be on occasion, you'll probably meet with considerable appreciation. You're likely to be more available when others need help or comfort. When you express your sensitivity and adaptability, it may draw others to you.

Your 9 Intensity Point

You probably find yourself, at times, in heavy emotional experiences which are difficult for you to handle. There are likely to be upsets and disappointments involved in each of these situations, and considerable effort has to be invested in order to bring the experience to anything approaching a comfortable conclusion. You probably have to learn to give more of yourself, particularly on an emotional level, to those you are close to. You have to learn to give much sympathy, compassion and tolerance to those you hold dear with little thought for your own needs and desires. It will probably take much work to learn this lesson.

Your 2 Challenge

During your early years, there may be times when you feel fearful and timid. Occasionally, you may be hurt by an unkind word or action. From time to time, you may worry about others' opinions of you. As you get older, you probably will start to feel more comfortable with other people and less afraid of their reactions. By the time you're past adolescence, your timidness will probably be replaced by a growing self-confidence.

THE OPPORTUNITIES AND INFLUENCES THAT WILL AFFECT YOUR LIFE IN 2017

Your 4 Life Path Period And 5 Pinnacle

In addition to the many personality traits and characteristics just described, two long term cycles, the Life Path Period and the Pinnacle, set the background tone for a number of years of your life. They produce no abrupt or intense effect, but, rather, determine the general influences that you'll feel during the time they're active.

At this time in your life you're apt to be looking for more security and stability. This may prove to be a good time to prepare a sturdy foundation for some of your current ventures in order to facilitate forward movement in the future. At the same time that you're looking for stability, you may also feel a need to develop new progressive interests. You're looking for fun and adventure, too, along with enjoyment on the lighter side of life. There are likely to be many opportunities available for all of your exciting interests as well as opportunities for freedom and expansion. Some of the time, your need for freedom may feel more important. At other times, your need to build stability may be more compelling. Since your interests may often be in opposition to each other, there may be occasions when you have to decide between two considerably different directions.

Your 5 Personal Year

You may be occupied for several years with the general concerns described above. In addition to those interests, though, the Personal Year is a more specific influence that has a much stronger impact on your daily life. Though this influence is not directly related to your basic personality, it can show the time of greatest opportunity or when potential difficulties can arise. Having this information before hand can help you to get the most out of each year. Let's examine the specific areas of concern which are likely to attract your attention in 2017.

This could be a year with a great deal of variety and excitement. Be prepared to make some important changes in 2017, mostly changes that you initiate yourself. These changes will usually play a significant role in opening up new and advantageous opportunities.

You're likely to have a strong desire to expand your horizons this year as well as to take part in the many new experiences that seem to come your way. This is a perfect time to make and enjoy new friends, have adventures, travel and enjoy all sorts of social activities. Above all, 2017 is a time to delight in freedom, to move away from old routines, and to seek out new interests.

Make the most of the excitement and progressive potential this year without, if possible, overdoing it. The odds are good that there are far more opportunities this year than you can deal with comfortably. Although it may take all your effort, try to pick and choose carefully and follow through only on the opportunities with the greatest potential. With your restlessness, impatience and impulsiveness, it may be difficult for you not to try to take advantage of everything that comes your way. If you succumb to your usual feelings, you may find yourself overwhelmed with opportunity and incapable of making progress in any direction.

Although you may have a lot of fun, excitement and adventure in 2017, you may end the year with considerable frustration if you feel that many significant opportunities have slipped through your fingers. This could be a special year for you, though, if you've learned how to control your restlessness.

SUMMARY

There's a great deal of delight to be found in the stimulating, creative and versatile kind of person you are likely to be now or are working to become. Others usually recognize and appreciate your fine imagination, your exciting spirit of adventure and your contagious enthusiasm for life.

When you comfortably integrate the other energies described in previous sections with your free-wheeling energy, you'll probably experience richer and more rewarding experiences. As you get older, the chances are that you find it easier to balance and modify your youthful enthusiasm so that your versatility and creativity can be used constructively. You'll probably learn to adjust the pace of your life so that you can enjoy the variety and excitement you prefer and still be able to concentrate on completing your creative ventures with a satisfying sense of accomplishment.
